CAMP OFFERS "TAD" JONES

Applications for Positions Are Coming In, but Board is Still Searching for Available Candidates.

We're looking for a year-round coach, some one to beat K. U.

Some one to shield us from defeat, some one who'll always brew. LINCOLN. March 4 .- (Special.)-These foregoing words, set to the tune of De Wolf Hopper's successful comic song, "I'm Looking for a Husband," have formed the campaign slogan for the athletic board of the University of Nebraska in its quest of a coach to take charge of all athletics at the Cornhuskers school. Tired of meeting defeat in foot ball, basket ball and base ball season after season, the Cornhuskers have resolved, that; if good coaching will bring a change for the better, with victories in most branches of sports, then that change shall come soon. The Nebraska board has decided to hire a year-round coach, and to hire him at once, or as soon as the right man can be found. The Cornhuskers want a coach, who can instruct the students in foot ball, base ball, basket ball and possibly in track athletics. They want a man who can fill a position similar to that occupied by Alonzo A. Stagg, at the University of Chicago, and they are willing to pay the right man a good salary. The place will be ready for the new man to step into it by November 1, but the Nebraska board wishes to elect the future occupant at once, and has started out to canvas the field of coaches available for the job. At a recent meeting, the board unanimously agreed that a coach who should remain at the state school all the year LINCOLN, March 5 .- (Special.)-Nebraska was the one thing of which Cornbusker base ball stock aviated this afternoon when athletics are in dire need, and voted to tried out for the team two years ago when shall bolster up the cornhusker athletic

In answer to a letter from Dr. Clapp of Nebrasks, Walter Camp, the veteran sage of Yale's athletics, declared ,"Tad" Jones, the famous ex-Yale athlete, to be the best man for the Cornhusker position, in his opinion. Jones was a great Yale foot ball and base ball player. In the opinion of Stagg he was one of the best players that ever played on a Yale eleven. Other men were mentioned by Camp, who might fill the Cornhusker job, but Jones was given preference over all others by the Yala mentor. Jones has had some experience in coaching since he left Yale, Last fall he drilled the Syracuse eleven. His team was not a successful one, and was defeated by both Michigan and Illinois. According to foot ball critics, that condition of the Syracuse team was not the fault of Jones: the material was scanty and the ex-Yale player had to work under a great handicap. Camp says Jones ought to be able to produce a championship eleven from a fair amount of good material. Some of the members of the Nebraska board are inclined to look with great favor upon Jones. Dr. Clapp, himself a graduate and a former noted track athrete of Yale, is a strong believer in the efficacy of Yale
